EXECUTIVE SEARCH SINCE 1992

Greater Zurich Area | Technical Solutions & Customer Support

Our client is a well-established Swiss technology company with more than 45 years of successful market presence and an excellent reputation in its market segment. As part of an international group, the company develops, distributes and services specialized technical solutions for professional customers across Switzerland. Innovation, quality and long-term customer relationships are key drivers of its continued success.

To strengthen its technical service organization, we are looking for a motivated and hands-on professional as

Field Service Specialist (m/f/d)

Your role

- Perform maintenance, servicing and repair work on sophisticated robotic technical equipment and systems
- Diagnose and resolve mechanical, electrical and electronic issues
- Prepare, configure and test equipment before delivery and installation
- Provide technical support to customers remotely and on-site
- Conduct customer training and technical instruction
- Assist with product installations, commissioning and acceptance procedures
- Document service activities and support continuous improvement initiatives

Your profile

- Technical apprenticeship or vocational training in mechanics, mechatronics, electronics, electrical engineering, automation or a related field
- Experience in maintenance, repair or servicing of robotics, automation equipment, inspection systems, measurement devices or other advanced technical systems
- Customer-oriented and solution-driven mindset
- Ability to work independently, take ownership and solve problems pragmatically
- Willingness to travel regularly within Switzerland
- Good German and English language skills, French and/or Italian would be an advantage

Your benefits

- Varied technical role with autonomy and direct impact
- Flat hierarchies and short decision-making processes
- Innovative and proven solutions with clear customer value

Would you like to combine your technical expertise with customer contact and hands-on service work in an innovative technology environment? We look forward to receiving your application at careers@nellen.ch.

Absolute confidentiality is guaranteed throughout the entire recruitment process.
